

A large digital billboard on a sidewalk, divided into three panels. The left panel shows a man and a woman in business attire. The middle panel is an abstract painting with yellow and orange tones. The right panel is a pixelated map.

421

BEST BUY

Artbridge

What's going on here? Well, Artbridge, the nonprofit organization dedicated to revitalizing the cityscape by transforming underutilized city surfaces into canvas for the work of local emerging artists, is pleased to bring you its latest exhibition, Works in Progress. The exhibition spans over 100 feet and features the work of emerging artists who all live and make their art in Brooklyn. Each piece featured in the exhibition city on reference or reveals something about the artist and their artistic process and was selected by Via Muris, Amanda Cho, and Suzanne Tsai, a team of some of Brooklyn's finest artists and curators.

For more about the artist see www.artbridge.org